Valuable LANDS FOR SALE.

THE subscriber offers the following very valuable Tracts of LAND for sale, situated in Beaver county, North-Sewickly township, state of Pennsylvania, in Leets' District of Depreciation Lands: viz.

No. 190—216 acres or thereabouts, with allowance—On which tract is erected a good frame dwelling house, a barn, and other out-houses, with about 30 acres cleared, and an excellent spring before the house.

No. 178—130 acres—To this tract belongs one third part of a Saw-mill and has about 18 acres cleared.

No. 173—208 1-2 acres and allowance, on which are cleared about 16 acres. These three tracts lay contiguous to each other, and have between 3 & 4 acres of first rate bottom land, and particularly calculated for grazing farms, and large dairies—it is well watered by Connequenessing and Brush creeks besides small brooks and springs—with a good mill seat on Brush creek—lying in a very thriving settlement, from 3 1-2 to 6 miles from two Iron-works, and surrounded by 4 merchant mills, at the distance of 1 1-2 to 6 miles; it is about 5 miles and a half from Harmony, 9 miles from Beaver town, and 25 from Pittsburgh.—For further information, apply to Stephen Runyon, esq. on the premises or to Dr. James Agnew, in Pittsburgh, as that gentleman is perfectly acquainted with the above property, or to the subscriber.

ALSO,

150 acres of first rate upland, on Toby's or Camp creek, Armstrong county, from 2 1-2 to 3 miles from the Allegheny river: viz.

No. 450—containing 332 acres, with a good improvement on it.

No. 891—400 acres, with two good improvements on it, with about 60 acres cleared.

No. 404—containing 409 acres, with two improvements, on it and a Tanyard, lying on the waters of Cherry run. These lots are of a superior quality, and have the advantage of water conveyance, and would be valuable to proprietors residing on them.—ALSO—

That beautifully situated FARM, called

Hamilton Hall,

8 miles from Pittsburgh, on the Monongahela river, containing 205 acres of land—of which there is about 140 acres of first rate river and creek bottom, with an excellent stream of water. On which is erected a new Saw-mill: it is deemed unnecessary to say any thing in praise of this property as it is well known to be one of the handsomest Farms in Allegheny county; and as it is presumed that persons wishing to purchase will take a minute survey of this property, in every respect worthy the attention of monied men. No objection would be made to take in part pay, real property in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, or Baltimore, at a reasonable valuation. For further information apply to the proprietor at Hamilton in Mifflin township Allegheny County, nearly opposite the mouth of Turtle Creek,

PLANTERS HOTEL,

Church street nearly opposite the Printing office of the Missouri Gazette,
(ST. LOUIS.)

THE situation of this new Establishment is very convenient for travellers, in the centre of business, and, from the elevation of the ground, cool and healthy. The improvements already made are considerable. The dining room particularly 44 feet long, by 21.—Every exertion will be made by the proprietor, to give satisfaction to travellers or residents, who will honour his house with their custom.—At present considerable difficulty is experienced in obtaining marketing, owing perhaps to the very great and continued emigration to this country; but the proprietor flatters himself that, with the stock of provisions already on hands, he will be able to accommodate his guests amply. The house stands on a beautiful and extensive lot, which will be laid out as a Pleasure Garden, ornamented with handsome walks, and summer houses, for the recreation of gentlemen during the summer season, and furnished with Liquors, Fruit, Wines, Ice-Creams, Cakes and Pastry, of every description. A billiard-room is attached to the establishment. In order that the house may be kept with regularity and good order, a printed copy of the regulations will be put up in every room.

The prices will be moderate.

In the back of the lot is a Livery Stable, which will shortly come into the possession of the proprietor of the Hotel, and will be well furnished with provender, and attended by careful and obliging hostlers.

Groceries and Liquors,

which they will dispose of at the lowest prices and most reasonable terms,

PERSONS DESCENDING THE RIVER CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH

of the best quality, on the shortest notice. No attention shall be spared to render every necessary satisfaction to those who may favor them with their custom.

COUNTRY MERCHANTS AND OTHERS, CAN BE SUPPLIED WITH ANY QUANTITY OF

Bottled Porter.

BEATTY & ARMSTRONG, beg leave to inform the public, that owing to the delay which strangers are obliged to encounter in passing down the river by water—they have adopted the system of keeping books of entry, of the arrival and departure of BOATS, where loading, whence bound, &c. that persons wishing to take passage or frieght, may receive every necessary information. Captains and owners are requested to have their boats registered (which will be done gratis) as it will be to their own interest and the interest of the public.

Pittsburgh, April 10, 1818.—— tf

Cincinnati LAND AGENCY.

THE Subscribers, under the firm of JESSE EMBREE & CO. have opened in Cincinnati, (Ohio) an office for the purchase and sale of land, and of general land intelligence, in which they have taken measures to concenter, not only all the district plots of United States' lands in the Western country, with a considerable part of the field notes, which describe the quality and soil, but such other topographical information as considerable personal observation, and an extensive correspondence have placed within their reach.—They have also established agencies in the different sections of this country, and consequently will be able to answer the enquiries and execute the orders of their patrons with the greatest possible despatch.—As it is the intention of the proprietors to render this institution both permanent and useful, it is scarcely necessary to add, that no exertion shall be wanting on their part to merit the confidence and patronage of those who may wish to make use of their services in the line of their business.—They will transact on commission, or for a reasonable compensation, all kinds of negociation connected with the soil; such as purchasing of individuals or in the offices of the United States, paying taxes, &c. and will act as agents in all landed concerns. They keep a register, in which is entered for the perusal of enquirers, the description of all real property placed under their care for sale, and as they have now a great variety on hand, purchasers can have an extensive choice. Selecting and entering Congress Lands will constitute an important item in their business, and in this way they expect to be most useful to their friends at a distance. Letters addressed in the name of the firm, (post paid) to this place, will receive the most prompt attention.

MISSOURI SALINES.

VERY INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF THEM.

The GRAND SALINE is situated about 250 miles south-west of Fort Osage, between the forks of a small branch of the Arkansas, one of which washes its southern extremity; and the other, the principal one, runs nearly parallel with, and within a mile of its opposite side. It is a hard level plain, of reddish coloured land, of an irregular or mixed figure, its greatest length is from north-west to south-east, and its circumference full thirty miles. This plane is entirely covered in dry hot weather, from two to six inches deep with a crust of clear white Salt, of a quality rather superior, I think, to the imported blown salt. In this state the Saline bears a striking resemblance to a field of brilliant white snow, with a frozen crust on it after a rain.

The Grand Saline is environed with ridges of sand hills; some of which are perfectly naked; some thinly clothed with verdure and small trees; and others afford on their declivities thickets of dwarf plumb trees, not much more than thirty inches high, which yielded us (June 23) a great abundance of ripe plums, the largest and finest I ever tasted. I think the salt may easily be waggoned from this place to the Arkansas, where keel boats may receive it at certain seasons. The road is through an open prairie all the way, and the distance not more than 80 or 90 miles.

The ROCK SALINE lies about 75 miles north-west of the Grand Saline, surrounded by naked mountains of red clay and gypsum.—It is a level flat of hard red sand of about 600 acres, through which passes a small stream dividing it into two unequal parts, one fifth or about 100 acres, being at the south-west side, close under a tremendous hill, from the base of which issue several springs of salt water, which gradually covers the plain, and, by the action of the sun, is, in dry or hot seasons, converted into a solid mass of salt, several inches in thickness. There are also within this plain four springs of salt water perfectly saturated, around which are formed hollow cones of rock salt—from 12 to 20 inches in thickness.—When I visited this Saline it had just been inundated by excessive rains, and all the salt was swept off, except that around the four springs; I found an immense quantity there, and actually blocked out with my tomahawk a very clear piece full 15 inches thick. From what I saw myself, and what my faithful Indian guide told me on the spot, and had often told me before, I have not the least doubt but there are times when this whole section, next the hills, is covered completely with a solid rock of salt from 4 to 19 inches thick, and, immediately around the four springs, 12 to 20 inches; resembling a field of ice in large flakes. The other section produces salt exactly like that of the Grand Saline.—The country around the Rock Saline is very mountainous, and the Saline can be aproached only on foot, or (with some difficulty) on horseback.

You have a specimen of the salt which I got at this Saline from one of the springs, therefore I need not describe it.

THE SEMINOLE WAR.

We find in the documents on this subject, recently transmitted by the president to congress, an official annunciation of those circumstances which have preceded and attended the recent movements of our troops in the south. These official papers vary so little from the unofficial accounts, that we do not think it material to publish them, with the exception of the following documents, which reduce to form and certainty the rumors we have heard concerning the instructions to our military authorities respecting the prosecution of the war.

Department of War, Dec. 16, 1817.

SIR,—On the receipt of this letter, should the Seminole Indians still refuse to make reparation for their outrages & depredations on the citizens of the United States, it is the wish of the president that you consider yourself at liberty to march across the Florida line, and to attack them within its limits, should it be found necessary, unless they should shelter themselves under a Spanish post. In the last event, you will immediately notify the department.

J. C. CALHOUN.

Gen. Edmund P. Gaines,
Fort Scott, Georgia.

Extract of a letter from the secretary of war to major gen. Andrew Jackson, at Nashville, Tenessee, dated Dec. 26 1817.

You will repair with as little delay as practicable, to Fort Scott and take the immediate command of the forces in that quarter of the Southern division.

The increasing display of hostile intensions by the Seminole Indians may render it necessary to concentrate all the contiguous disposable force of your division upon that quarter. The regular force now there is about 800 strong, and 1000 militia of the state of Georgia is called into service. General Gaines estimates the strength of the Indians at 2700. Should you be of opinion that our numbers are too small to beat the enemy, you will call on the executive of the adjacent states for such an additional militia force as you may deem requisite.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER.

"Newburyport, March 28.

"Observing an article in several papers, announcing an attempt of robbing the Eastern Mail on Thursday night last, near this town, I hasten to correct the impression which such an attempt is calculated to make on the public mind.

"The man, who is stated to have seized the horses by the head, is found. His name is Benjamin Field, belonging to Straham, N. H. and well known to be intellectually deranged, and perfectly inoffensive in his conduct; so much so, that he is permitted to go at large. The reason of seizing the horses was probably an act of self-defence, to prevent being trampled upon. He was considerably bruised by the wheels, and carries a pretty legible mark of the driver's whip on his face. It is said the wheel passed over his right leg: notwithstanding which, he wandered down as far as Salisbury, where he is now under the doctor's care."

A GREAT OFFER.

"During this winter I have repeatedly written home to my friends, to make an offer directly to lord Bathurst, for my contractin- to settle the country with British subjects. I now say that if government will give me the management of the public lands of Upper Canada for 30 years, I will maintain during that time, two regiments for his majesty; repair all the forts; and for the last twenty years of the term pay an annual rent to Britain of a hundred thousand pounds sterling."

ROBERT GOURLAY.

Niagara, Feb. 24th, 1818.

Foreign.

LONDON, Feb. 6.

Paris papers to the 3d instant, have been received. One of their foreign articles is highly interesting to British feeling, but we are glad to perceive that the relation in question ends with an expression of doubts as to the accuracy, of the horrible circumstance stated. It is the detail of more outrages at Algiers, contained in a letter from Genoa, of the 15th of January, purporting to be related by the vice-consul from the Sardinian Court to Algiers, who had fled from the scene of horror. It is stated that the vice-consul of Sardinia, at Algiers, had arrived at Genoa, who relates the following facts: A Sardinian brig had been captured and carried into Algiers, under the pretence that her papers were not regular.—The vice-consul protested against the capture, & proceeded to the palace of the Dey, with his colleagues the other consuls. The Dey received them sword in hand, surrounded by his guards. The English consul presented himself at the same time, to complain of acts of violence which had been committed upon his son and his two nieces. They had been stopped in the street; the young man had been thrown into a dungeon, and the two ladies had been conveyed to the seraglio of the Dey, where Turkish dresses had been given them. The Dey in a fury, ordered his captain of the guards to bring in the young Englishman, whose head was cut off in the presence of his father. The bleeding head was exposed at the gate of the palace, and the English consul withdrew trembling. The Sardinian vice-consul received no other answer to his representation, than an order immediately to quit Algiers, and they took from him his daughter by force.

We have some difficulty in giving credit to this horrible statement, as the letter says in conclusion, this article has probably been copied from an Italian Journal. Its contents being happily un-authenticated, we shall say nothing of the duty they would obviously impose upon England, if they should be found to be true. We shall merely say, that if it shall be deemed necessary to send another expedition against Algiers, we hope and trust it will be better managed in its result than the last.

The details of the horrible atrocities stated in the French papers, on the authority of letters from Genoa, we are glad to find, are not confirmed by the accounts in the Dutch and Hamburg mails which have subsequently been received. The Hamburgh mail however, repeats a part of the dreadful intelligence. According to the information thus derived, the murder of the British vice-consul's son was not perpetrated but threatened. The former accounts from Algiers alledged the forcible consignment of the British vice-consul's daughter to the harem of their reigning despot, and the murder of his son, before his eyes, by the same barbarous authority, and in the presence of the assembled ministers of the European powers. The Hamburg papers mention only the niece of the Sardinian consul as being so insulted. Thus however, from various sources of intelligence, we learn, that a great outrage has been committed; but, as truths of a painful nature are seldom lessened in the repetition, we may conclude, that the latter account is the only one which should be fully credited. Of the insufficiency of treaties with such chiefs as those of Moorish Africa, to restrain their people from the barbarities which have become habitual to them, this affair is another proof. When will the jarring and jealous ambition of the European powers allow them to take the only proper mode of establishing a civilized power on the coasts of Moorish Africa? It is stated in these papers on the authority of letters from Constantinople, that the deys of Tunis and Algiers have concluded a treaty under the guarantee of the grand signior, and at the same time, in conjunction with the dey of Tripoli, have entered into an offensive and defensive alliance with the emperor of Morocco. If this intelligence be true, it will in some degree, account for the arrogance of the present dey of Algiers. The king of Sardinia is stated to have issued orders, in consequence of the above outrage, to fit out a squadron for the purpose of demanding satisfaction.

Miscellany.

EXTRACT FROM PAULDING'S LETTERS.

Having two or three hours to spare till dinner, we rambled about the church-yard, reading the records of mortality, which, though every where confined to a few simple items, concerning a few insignificant people, are always interesting. They are the history of high and low; and none can read them without being impressed with a conviction that all are his brothers at last—for all die. He who moulders below was born—and died; and whether rich or a beggar, his short history is that of kings. The struggles of restless ambition—the reverses of the great—and the story of the wreck of lofty pride, we read as an interesting romance, addressing itself solely to the imagination: but when a monarch or a hero dies, he becomes our equal; his death is an example equal with that of the meanest mortal; and we here realize our common nature, and common end.

While poring over these tombstones our attention was attracted by a long cavalcade, on foot, on horseback, and in carriages of various kinds, winding slowly over one of the hills at a distance. It came towards the church-yard, entered it, and stopt at a large oak, under which was a newly dug grave we had not noticed before. The people of the village were attracted by it, and came up, one after another, until there were, I suppose, two hundred, men, women and children, gathered together. Without a whisper, except that of the oaks around, the coffin was taken from the waggon, lowered into the grave and covered with earth. I never witnessed a silence more solemn and affecting; and beautiful as is our church funeral service, I will venture to say it never raised a feeling of more deep & awful devotion, than that which impressed the dead silence around. There was no need of saying "dust to dust;" every clod of earth, as it fell hollowly on the coffin, proclaimed that; neither was any proof wanting that "man who is born of a woman," must die, for a thousand little hillocks around gave silent testimony to the fact. When the mound over the grave was smoothed with pious care, a little buzzing ran through the crowd—and as it slowly separated, some ventured to talk about the deceased person, who was, I found, a Quaker lady, who died—as others die, of some common malady or other. She was neither a belle, nor a beauty; no crowd ever followed her at a ball, nor could I learn that she had ever received a single offer of marriage, except from the person we had left still standing by her grave. Yet there was something in the story I learned of her, that affected me, I can hardly tell why, for it was not the least romantic.

It seems that her husband, in consequence of imprudence or misfortune, had several years before been confined in a prison for debt, leaving a family of eight children destitute. By the rare magic of industry and economy united, this woman by her own labours, kept the little ones together—fed, clothed and sent them to school, until the gaol accidentally took fire, and the prisoner walked home. Here he afterward remained unmolested, for the virtues of his wife had sanctified his person. There is a species of calm, persevering, courageous, and unconquerable industry that gets the better even of fate. Such, it seems, was the industry of this valuable woman, and it was rewarded even in this world. She lived—God bless her—to see her husband independent and to share many years of independence with him. She reared all her children, saw them honourably settled, and heard the old people say that whatever had been her sacrifices for them, they had repaid her, by their dutiful affection and exemplary conduct. Then when she at last died, neither poet mad her an angel, nor newspaper eulogy a sa but the neighbours,—the neighbours, followed her to the grave without utterin word,—and the husband and children st round it with their faces covered.

Now if this little true story wants a mo al, I think it will easily be found. For part, I cannot help believing this sim Quaker woman was a more valuable bei and fulfilled her duties far more to the be efit of society, than if she had been a me ber of as many charitable societies as au Kate—and had refused as many fools as lady I once heard of in Virginia. I m own too, that I consider her silent, un trusive, suffering, fire-side virtue, as preferable to the public and ostentati newspaper charity, which, in the pres time, stalks bravely forth and beckons e ry worthless vagabond to its shrine, fr Europe, Asia, Africa and America. H all women been like our Quaker, there been little need of these societies; nor so many excellent ladies neglected th homes to prowl into the dens of profli vice, and soil the purity of the female he by an habitual contemplation of the disg ting drama of human misery brought on human depravity. It is thus they incre instead of diminish, the sum of vice misery, by teaching idleness and profli to become more idle and vicious, in the tainty that in the last resort, they can without either virtue or work, in this c itable age.

Thoughts at no time out of season.

Says a writer in the Edinburgh Revie —"We think that war never wears a m unpleasing aspect, than when according the accustomed phraseology, it is consid ed on a grand scale, and in what is c ed a scientific point of view. So many tails are given of long planned operati foredooming to spoil and havoc all the dustry of man has won from the bount nature:—there we are taught to join lauding the sagacity of the commander by sacrificing a few hecatombs of his foll ers, insured the victory of the remaind and after summing up, in round numbe the total amount of the killed, wounded missing, the balance is struck, and carr off to the profit and loss account of the ger of the royal merchant on whose acco the speculation is carried on, to be duly timated at the next partition."

"There appears to be such utter in ference to the sufferings of our fellow-cr tures, in calmly sending forth the manda of destruction, such guilt in wilfully af ting them with an endless train of phys moral evil, that it becomes no longer po ble to deny the dreadful price which is for military glory."

UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE.

A gentleman direct from the head of the Allegheny river, informs us of an unhappy accident which took place a few miles above the town of Warren, Venango county, on the 4th of the present month. Two boats lashed together, were descending the river from the Olean Point; and navigated by persons, presumed to be unacquainted with the river, they ran upon the head of an island which was covered with drift wood. One of them was driven upon the wood and sustained no material injury. The other, in which were a man and his wife, an elderly lady and several children, broke loose from the boat to which it was lashed, and went to the bottom. The unhappy mother, in her efforts to save her offspring, caught three of them in her arms, and struggled a long time to keep them above water until some other boats, which were in company, could come to their relief; but the strength of the current overpowered and swept her away. Two of the children however were saved and taken on board the other boat, which, by this time had been got off. Those who perished, were the mother, her child, and the old lady, whose bodies have not yet been found, having been probably driven under the timber, along the side of the island. The survivors arrived at Warren the next day in a condition truly deplorable. The husband is a man of about forty years of age and of a decent appearance.—His daughter, a girl of near fifteen, was almost distracted with grief, and round her clung the remaining part of the family apparently miserable. All the gentleman's effects were lost.

REGISTRY OF BOATS.

I have observed with pleasure, that Messrs. Beatty and Armstrong intend keeping at their store in Water street, an office of Registry, whereby strangers and others concerned, can ascertain the arrival and departure of boats—where from—whither bound—what their loading—where lying, &c. This is an establishment which has long been wanted in Pittsburgh, and the advantages accruing from it to the trading and travelling part of the community, will appear manifest on a slight view of the subject. It had been hoped that the wisdom of our city councils, would ere this time have provided a convenience similar to this; but as they have not, it becomes the duty of every citizen anxious for the prosperity of the place, to use his exertions to promote the usefulness of that of Messrs. Beatty and Armstrong.

A printing press is now in use in England, which, attended by one man and two boys, will print above a thousand sheets on both sides, in one hour, and this without any harder labour than putting on and taking off the sheets. It is propelled by steam and was invented by a German.

The late intelligence from the Mediterranean, if true, speaks the fate of Algiers in language too plain and prophetic to be misunderstood. If an English consul has been so abused—if the head of the son has been struck off before the eyes of his father—if his daughter has been consigned to a seraglio,—Algiers will be razed to its foundation and reduced to an heap of ashes. It is such an outrage as will in all human probability lead to a conjunction of all Christian powers for the extirpation of these savages. It may lead to the project of sir Sidney Smith, for all nations to unite in preserving a permanent force in the Mediterranean to burn, sink and destroy the fleet of these barbarians. That a treaty should bind ruffians whose very principles of faith lead to a systematic violation of all treaties formed with Christian powers, is indeed one of those lamentable fallacies which nothing but a catastrophe of this kind is capable of dissolving. We lament this individual misfortune as deeply as any Englishman can do, but something of this kind seems indispensible to rouse the torpid apathy of the Christian world. The mysterious dispensations of Divine Providence are only seen by the torch of phrophecy.—There is a time predicted of the return of the Jews to Jerusalem, the land of their fathers. As if to accomplish this great event, the powers of Barbary are continually perpetrating outrages on the commerce of the Christians, so much superior to them in physical strength and the means of annoyance. These powers are constantly thus provoked to hostility, and the consequence may be the accomplishment of divine prophecy.—Fed. Rep.

The subject of the better organization of the Militia of the United States, is again passed by, the House of Representatives having refused to take it up, when moved by Gen. Harrison, on Tuesday last. This decision is understood to operate as a postponement of the subject to the next session; when, according to the rule of proceeding recently adopted, it will stand for decision in its present shape, after the first week in the session, without being originated de novo, as required by former practice.—*Nat. The position of the city of New-Orleans, favorable to commerce, and enterprize, has also its attendant disadvantages. Between the foreign mariners whom their vocation brings there, the domestic sharpers who travel there in search of prey, and the desperadoes who hover along the shore, to-day neutral, to-morrow belligerent, and the next day piratical, the police appears to have full employment. Not finding its force or vigilance sufficient to check the assassin and nightly depredator, a patrol has been established of the Militia forces, of the moral mass of the community, for the purpose of guarding the peace of the city.

We have before us the Orleans Gazette of the 10th February, containing a letter under the signature of Fayette, from which some idea may be gathered of the characters of some of the free-botters who infest that neighbourhood. It appears that a profligate and abusive letter has been addressed, in the same paper, to the worthy Collector of that port by Pierre Lafitte, one of the pardoned Barratarians, in consequence of the disclosures respecting him contained in Mr. Chew's letter, which was in December last transmitted by the President to Congress. There are some allusions in this letter which it makes the blood run cold to read: the following for instance:

"The defiance offered against the proof of any capture but the vessels of Ferdinand VIIth may sound well enough at a distance, but it is entirely impotent here, where the term "walking the plank" is as familiarly and lightly made use of as that of "crooking your elbow." Indeed, if departed shades were e'er permitted to revisit this world, it is shrewdly suspected that Mrs. Vanpradell and divers others could unfold a tale whose lightest word would harrow up the soul."

After reading the preceding passage, no one will deny the force of the following remarks.

"The most interesting pretension, however, that Mr. Lafitte has to notice on this occasion, is the deleterious tendency of impertinencies like his, upon a cause in which noble hearts and unsullied hands are engaged, and with whose generous spirits might be united in the minds of the uninformed an ignoble band of grovelling & mercenary depredators. It is necessary to guard the unwary against the further assumption of the character of Mexican patriots by men who have already counterfeited it too long, and who have done more to cool the natural ardour of the people of the United States, in the existing struggle between American liberty and European oppression, than any political calculation of national interest."

William Cobbett, in a late communication to the editor of the N. York Columbian, recommends the culture in this country of the Russian or Swedish Turnip, which may be produced, he says, to the quantity of eight hundred bushels to the acre. Some of those raised by him last summer, at Long Island, weighed 10 pounds each—many that he sends to market, weigh from 6 to 8. They will fatten a sheep or pig, and half keep a horse. His communication is closed by the following singular sentence:—"My stay in the United States may not be long; but I am not without some hopes that my visit will be remembered by the introduction of the root culture, and by the driving out of long-nosed, long-necked, long-legged, sharp-backed and pot-bellied hogs."

FROM ALGIERS.

We learn from Capt. Hunter, of the brig Reuben Eliza, from Cadiz, that a Gibraltar paper in the possession of the supercargo, contains a confirmation of the news from Algiers, (published yesterday from the London papers) of the late outrage of the Dey of Algiers towards the daughter of the Sardinian Vice-Consul. The new Dey is universally spoken of as one of the greatest tyrants that has ever reigned at Algiers.

BANK OF ST. LOUIS.

By a publication in a newspaper at St. Louis on the 13th of March, we are informed that the bank had been opened agreeably to notice, on the 10th of that month, and was then paying specie regularly on demand. The extraordinary differences and proceedings, which had taken place, and in which it is difficult to discover what party was most in fault, seem to have been accommodated, and the business of the bank resumed in the usual way. To be enabled to judge what degree of credit is due to its paper, the public should know, that its late cashier, John B. N. Smith, sold bills as its officer to the amount of more than $90,000—for the proceeds of which he has not accounted to the bank, and the whole of which it is probable the bank will lose; that its capital, if we are rightly informed, is but $150,000; and that it still continues in the hands of the directors, by whom Smith was kept in office, and by whose mismanagement the late irregularities were produced.

LAW CASE.

The last RICHMOND ENQUIRER contains a law case interesting to those who are in the habit of cutting bank notes and transmitting the halves at different periods, in which it is decreed, that the bona fide owner of a bank note, having transmitted one half thereof by the mail, which has been stolen therefrom, or is lost, cannot demand payment of the bank of any part of its amount, in consequence of holding the retained half, merely: but that he is entitled to demand the whole amount of the said note, on satisfying the banks of the verity of the above facts or establishing them by the judgment of the court of equity: and giving, in either case, a satisfactory indemnity, to secure the bank against future loss, from the appearance and setting up the other half of such note.

As this opinion has emanated from the highest law tribunal in this commonwealth, persons who may hereafter deem it safe and proper to transmit the halves of bank notes, will see the propriety of minutely describing the retained halves, and of satisfactorily proving their bona fide ownership.

Monongahela Bridge.

THE Stockholders for erecting a Bridge over the Monongahela river, opposite Pittsburg, are required to pay the Treasurer on each share of said stock FIVE Dollars on or before the 15th day of May next—being the fifth and last instalment.

By order of the Board of Managers.

JOHN THAW, Treasurer.

Extract from the Act of Incorporation.

Section 7.

Be it enacted &c. That if any stockholder, after thirty days notice in the public newspapers; printed in Pittsburgh, Washington, Union-Town and Greensburgh, of the times and places appointed for the payment of any proportion, dividend or instalment of the capital stock still due on each share, shall neglect to pay the same for the space of thirty days after the day whereon the same shall be appointed to be paid, every stockholder shall in addition to the instalment so called for, pay at the rate of five per cent per month for every month delay of such payment, and if the same and the said additional penalties shall remain unpaid so long that the accumulated penalties shall become equal to the sum already paid on such share, the same shall become forfeited to the company and may be sold under the direction of the President and managers or a majority of a quorum of them, at any of their meetings of transacting the business of the company—the order for that purpose being first entered in the minute book by the clerk of such meeting.

The Board of Managers at a meeting held the 4th of April 1818, passed the following Resolution, and directed the same to be published.

RESOLVED—That those Stockholders who have not paid the instalments heretofore called for, if they meet the payments now due with interest thereon, on or before the 15th day of May next, the same will be received.

And all the Shares on which such payments are not paid by that time, shall and will be forfeited or placed in suit for recovery, as the Board may then judge for the interest of the company.

MAYSVILLE, (Kentucky.)

THE enterprize and industry of the inhabitants of this town having placed it in a remarkable flourishing situation, and the subscribers being proprietors of land contiguous to it, have thought it advisable to add to its present confined limits. —They have laid off into convenient streets and allies, a sufficient quantity of land, situate in the bottom immediately above the said town, with a handsome situation for its extension. The advantages attending Maysville, more generally known by the name of Limestone, must be obvious to every man acquainted with the western country.

It stands immediately on the bank of the Ohio, and is surrounded by a fine, healthy, and fertile country on both sides of the river, and has been the deposit of the Merchandize imported from the Atlantic country for thirty years past.

The main leading road from Philadelphia, Baltimore, and the Eastern Country generally, towards New-Orleans, both by land and water passes this place, and necessarily renders it interesting. The Turnpike Road from the West makes it a point, and if a rich country, and permanent establishments, can give a town importance, this place must flourish. The subscribers offer their Lots on liberal terms, and will secure the purchasers many privileges and advantages, not common to towns. They invite the attention of the Mechanic, the Manufacturer, and Merchant of the West, under a full belief, that the advantages of all parties will be substantially promoted. The raw materials are abundant, capital and industry, with the first gifts of nature, must at this place ensure profit to correct enterprize.

A public sale of Lots will be made on the second Wednesday in April next, on a credit of 9, 18, and 27 months; a payment of five per cent on the value of each Lot will be required at the time of purchase, as a part of the price thereof; and an indisputable title made to the purchasers at the last payment.

In the mean time any persons wishing to purchase may be accommodated, on application to the subscribers.
